

SAYANTAN CHAKRABORTY is a director and heads the payments business in North America for Citi Global Transaction Services. In this role, Sayantan is responsible for all domestic and cross border payments solutions across Citi's Public Sector, Corporate and Financial Institutions clients in North America. He is also responsible for identifying and executing new strategic partnerships with financial technology providers and transaction aggregators in the region.

Sayantan has worked both in Asia and North America and has more than 10 years of diverse managerial experience in public sector, transportation and various functional areas within financial services including investment banking, wealth management and treasury services.

Sayantan is a mechanical engineer by training with a degree from Engineering Council of United Kingdom and did his M.B.A. from Indian Institute of Management, from where he graduated as the Gold Medalist for best overall performance in his graduating class and was also a recipient of the Dean's Merit Scholarship.