

D. CLARK PARTRIDGE has been with the state of Arizona for 22 years, serving as a supervisor and manager in General Accounting Office, the CFO for the Department of Commerce, deputy state comptroller, and since 2002 as state comptroller. Prior to joining the state, he worked in public accounting for Arthur Andersen & Co. His experience from the public and private sector, as well as the agency and statewide perspectives, provides a variety of insights into operations and problem resolutions. Growing up on a dairy farm, he learned the importance of hard work, planning, and persistence. He is passionate about performance, customer service, process improvement and public service.

Clark is a member of the Government Finance Officers Association and NASACT. He is currently serving as president of NASC and on a variety of NASACT and NASC committees, including the Executive Committees. He also serves as a co-chair of the Association of Government Accountants' (AGA) Partnership for Intergovernmental Management and Accountability.

He has been a volunteer with the March of Dimes for over 30 years, serving on the board in both Utah and Arizona. Clark attended Brigham Young University on a leadership scholarship, graduating with a bachelor of science degree in accounting, and is a certified public accountant and certified government financial manager.
