

ANNE SKORIJA is an information technology audit specialist II for the Pennsylvania Department of the Auditor General. She received her B.S. in accounting from Elizabethtown College. Prior to joining the Auditor General's Office, she worked as a senior accountant with Ernst and Young, LLP, and as a financial analyst with the Rite Aid Corporation.

As a financial auditor, Anne helped to manage the single audit of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, overseeing audits of programs such as the Highway Program, Unemployment Compensation and the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children.

Since transferring to Information Technology Audits, Anne has managed a diverse range of projects such as computer controls reviews for various audits, as well as computer assisted audit techniques. Projects include the commonwealth's GAAP audit, various school districts, the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, and the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board. She also has developed and presented training programs on SAP, AICPA auditing standards and GAO performance audit standards.

Anne is a certified public accountant, a certified information systems auditor, and a certified internal auditor. She is currently pursuing a master's in public administration from the Pennsylvania State University's School of Public Affairs.
