

STEPHEN STIRE is a managing director of The Iridium Group LLC and has been providing management consulting services to federal, state, higher education institutions, banks, and card associations for 15 years. As a principal of The Iridium Group, Stephen supports card programs with a blend of innovative approaches and effective solutions to each unique opportunity.

Stephen has extensive experience in assisting public and private sector clients in the areas of financial systems, litigation support, business processes and systems methodology, change management, program assessment, risk mitigation, strategic planning, application design and development, systems integration, systems testing, financial forensics, reporting/data analytics and technology infusion. He has a 10 year track record of providing effective solutions and optimizing operational efficiency for diverse challenges in commercial card programs.

Prior to co-founding The Iridium Group in 2001, Stephen worked at the Center for Entrepreneurial Studies and Development at West Virginia University, where he managed a number of financial and administrative business projects in manufacturing, health care, and the service industries, as well as the public sector.

Stephen holds a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering from West Virginia University.