

BRIAN TODD has served as the head of the fraud prevention area for the North America Controlled Disbursement Products for past three years, where he has helped lead the redesign of risk and control procedures for all operational processes. He has held previous roles within Citi as product manager for controlled disbursements payments products.

Brian is responsible for designing US healthcare banking solutions, Euro and Asia payments, as well as functioning as front office regulatory coordinator for health banking issues.

Brian Todd has been with Citibank 17 years.