

DAVID A. WILSON is the managing director for Accenture's Canada and U.S. State & Local Government practice, leading a team of management and technology professionals dedicated to helping the public sector achieve high performance. Accenture's Canada and U.S. State & Local Government practice implements innovative human services, revenue and finance and administration offerings for the full spectrum of public sector organizations, including agencies, municipalities, crown corporations and universities.

Over his last 26 years with Accenture, David has worked with numerous governments and universities to help them operate more effectively and efficiently, with a focus on back office transformation and shared services. In the current economic environment, David and his team are focused on introducing new capabilities for cross-jurisdiction collaboration designed to help fiscally constrained public sector entities restructure and reform their operations to do better with less.

David has authored whitepapers on shared services in the public sector, been a featured speaker on government efficiency and effectiveness at the Harvard Kennedy School, the National Association of State Auditors, Controllers and Treasurers, the Association of Government Accountants, the National Association of State Chief Information Officers and Oracle OpenWorld. He has been quoted in government industry periodicals such as Government Technology and Public CIO.

David currently resides in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and is the co-lead for Accenture's Minneapolis office. David sits on several community boards, including the Guthrie Theater, the Minneapolis Downtown Council, The Minneapolis Downtown Improvement District and the Trust for Public Land Minnesota Advisory Board. David has a B.A. in economics and Spanish from Kalamazoo College.
