At the 2012 NASACT Annual Conference, held in August in Seattle, members discussed a proposal from Moody’s Investor Services titled Adjustments to U.S. State and Local Government Reported Pension Data. The proposal was provided to members for review and input.

Initial reaction by members at the annual conference was concern, as some elements of the proposal were quite significant. Many members of the NASACT Executive Committee expressed strong concern, especially with the confusion that the proposed changes will create as states begin implementing the new pension standards from the Governmental Accounting Standards Board.

While Moody’s indicated that ratings on states are not likely to change under the proposal, it did say, “the proposed adjustments described in this Request for Comment would nearly triple 2010 reported unfunded actuarial accrued liability (‘UAAL’) for the 50 states and our rated local governments.”

The proposal considered four principal adjustments to as-reported pension information:

1. Multiple-employer cost-sharing plan liabilities will be allocated to specific government employers based on proportionate shares of total plan contributions.
2. Accrued actuarial liabilities will be adjusted based on a high-grade long-term corporate bond index discount rate (5.5 percent for 2010 and 2011).
3. Asset smoothing will be replaced with reported market or fair value as of the actuarial reporting date.
4. Annual pension contributions will be adjusted to reflect the foregoing changes as well as a common amortization period.

Moody’s presented the proposal as part of its efforts to “bring greater transparency and consistency to the analysis of pension liabilities.”

NASACT provided formal input to Moody’s on the proposal in a letter dated September 27. The letter states:

“Our primary concern centers around the confusion that we believe Moody’s new evaluation methodology will produce, especially given the recent passage of the two new pension standards released in June by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board...”

The letter continues:

“In fact, several of the provisions in the new GASB statements are similar to those contained in Moody’s proposal (with the primary exception of a fixed discount rate). Accordingly, we strongly urge Moody’s to wait until the new GASB statements have been implemented before developing another methodology for measuring pension liabilities and expenses.

We believe that the introduction of another set of pension numbers (unaudited in this case) at this time will only create more confusion and possibly panic for investors, policy makers, financial statement users, media outlets and the citizens (many of whom do not fully understand the debate on short-term vs. long-term discount rates and the impact on overall pension liabilities or the long-term nature of public pension plans). The one-size-fits-all approach does not seem warranted or appropriate.”

The National State Auditors Association held its annual IT conference in Nashville, Tennessee, on September 26-28. The conference was preceded by a day-long workshop on Tuesday, September 25. The workshop featured the topic of “Auditing Operating Systems and Database Security.”

The PowerPoint presentations from the workshop and conference sessions are available on NASACT’s website at www.nasact.org/conferences_training/nsaa/workshop.cfm. NSAA wishes to thank the speakers, moderators, and members of the NSAA E-Government Committee for their efforts to make this conference such a success. NSAA also wishes to extend special thanks to the Tennessee conference hosts, particularly Deborah Loveless, Dan Willis and Nathan Abbott. See pages 9 and 10 of this newsletter for photos from the workshop and conference.

The location and dates for the 2013 IT Workshop and Conference are to be determined. Questions may be directed to Sherri Rowland (srowland@nasact.org).

GAO Recaps Latest Fraud Findings in Medicaid

On October 10, The U.S. Government Accountability Office issued a report on its latest fraud investigations into the Medicaid program. Over 10,000 subjects—individuals and entities involved in fraud cases—were investigated for health care fraud, including fraud in Medicare, Medicaid, and the Children’s Health Insurance Program.

The report found that 40 percent of criminal fraud cases were being committed by medical facilities or durable medical equipment suppliers. This number, based on 2010 data, is down slightly from 2005, when medical facilities and durable medical equipment suppliers represented 41 percent of the subjects.

GAO continues to designate Medicare and Medicaid as high-risk federal programs, citing their size and complexity as making them vulnerable to fraud.

Pointing out just how big the fraud problem has become, GAO pulled data from 10 state Medicaid Fraud Control Units, which are required to be separate and distinct from the state Medicaid agencies, highlighting that:

“…over 40 percent of the 2,742 subjects investigated for health care fraud in Medicaid and CHIP in 2010 were home health care providers and health care practitioners. Civil health care fraud cases pursued by these MFCUs in 2010 resulted in judgments and settlements totaling nearly $829 million. Pharmaceutical manufacturers were to pay more than 60 percent ($509 million) of the total amount of civil judgments and settlements…”

In fiscal year 2011, over 48 million individuals were enrolled in Medicare, 55.6 million in Medicaid, and 8.7 million in the Children’s Health Insurance Program. These three programs account for approximately $849.2 billion in federal expenditures, and required the federal government to allocate over $608 million in funding to investigate and prosecute cases of alleged health care fraud.

The full report can be found at www.gao.gov/assets/650/647849.pdf.

Grants to States and Locals Plagued by Familiar Challenges

In September, the U.S. Government Accountability Office released a report entitled Grants to State and Local Governments: An Overview of Federal Funding Levels and Selected Challenges.

Through the study, GAO found that federal outlays for grants to state and local governments totaled more than $606 billion in fiscal year 2011. Over the last three decades, these grants have consistently been a significant component of federal spending, but the focus of this spending has changed over time. For example, during this period the proportion of federal outlays to state and local governments dedicated to Medicaid grants more than tripled, rising from 2.4 percent of total federal government outlays in 1980 to 7.6 percent in 2011. The increase in federal outlays for Medicaid and other health-related grant programs was offset by an approximately equivalent decrease in grants to state and local governments targeted for other areas such as transportation, education, and regional development.

GAO’s prior work and the work of others have also shown that the number of federal grant programs directed to state and local governments has generally increased over the last three decades. However, definitively determining the number of such grant programs presents difficulties. The lack of consensus on a methodology for how to define and count grant programs and data limitations in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance further complicates this effort.

GAO and others have previously reported on a variety of management challenges involving federal grants to state and local governments, many of which can be grouped into the following five topic areas:

1. Challenges related to effectively measuring grant performance: A lack of appropriate performance measures and accurate data can limit agencies’ ability to effectively measure grant program performance. This can affect the ability of federal agencies to ensure that grant funds are effectively spent.

2. Uncoordinated grant program creation: Numerous federal grant programs have been created over time without coordinated purposes or scope. This can result in grants management challenges such as unnecessary duplication across grant programs and unnecessary overlap in funding.

3. Need for better collaboration: A lack of collaboration among grant program participants can impede effective grant implementation in areas such as knowledge sharing and defining clear leadership roles.

4. Internal control weaknesses: When internal controls in grants management and oversight are weak, federal grant-making agencies face challenges in achieving program goals and assuring the proper and effective use of federal funds. Effective controls can help to avoid improper grant payments.

5. Lack of agency or recipient capacity: Capacity reflects the organizational, financial, and human capital resources available for the implementation of grant programs. A lack of capacity can adversely impact an agency’s or recipient’s ability to manage and implement grant programs.

Although the report does not make any specific recommendations, it does provide an overview of the current grants environment and challenges. The report was authored by Stanley Czerwinski and Beryl Davis; it can be found at www.gao.gov/assets/650/648792.pdf.
Tax-Exempt Bond Defense Network Created by Bond Dealers

A new coalition has been launched by the Bond Dealers of America, whose goal is to protect the status of tax-exempt bonds from possible changes in the tax code next year. The coalition, called Municipal Bonds for America (MBA), will represent dealers, issuers and municipal market professionals. MBA’s mission states that it will provide a unified advocacy voice to promote and defend the municipal bond market and serve as a single source of information for policy makers regarding municipal finance and the benefits to taxpayers, investors, and state and local governments.

Founding members of the MBA include the National Association of Local Housing Finance Agencies, Fifth Third Securities, and the Bond Dealers of America. In a press release, MBA co-chairman Marty Vogtsberger said:

“Given the growing need to replace aging infrastructure and renew economic growth, it is now more important than ever to make certain that local and state governments continue to have access to reasonably priced funding.”

The other co-chairman, Ken Williams, stated:

“Tax exempt municipal bonds are well understood by investors and issuers and have been a successful financing tool throughout the century… Policy makers should not try to fix what isn’t broken; a tax on tax exempt bonds ultimately shifts more burdens to local governments.”

Association Notes: NASACT’s New Benchmarking Program Is Open for Business!

States interested in benchmarking key functions may wish to consider participating in NASACT’s new benchmarking program, an extension of the program originally created in 2005.

On June 29, NASACT and The Hackett Group signed a new contract to offer benchmarking services to state governments for the following functions: finance business processes; human resources (including payroll); procurement; and information technology. The contract is for six years (three years, with options for three one-year extensions).

NASACT is currently negotiating contracts for part B of the RFP for benchmark-related consulting services.

More information about the benchmarking project are on NASACT’s website, including the RFP and the signed contract, at www.nasact.org/nasact/benchmarking/rfpcontract.cfm.

Pricing

The sample Statement of Work attached to NASACT’s contract with Hackett contains an outline of the cost for one or more benchmarks and optional additional services. The basic price structure is as follows (participating states will also reimburse The Hackett Group for travel-related expenses, and NASACT will charge a three percent administrative fee):

Background

NASACT began its benchmarking program on August 4, 2005. The project was conceived as a means by which states could procure benchmarking services and compare state programs and agencies to each other within a state and to those in other states. The project developed a common taxonomy to allow for equitable comparisons in the areas of finance, HR/payroll, procurement and IT.

Since that time, 15 states have participated in one or more benchmarks. Additionally, through the program NASACT has offered executive advisory services for states wishing to obtain assistance in implementing recommendations resulting from their benchmark studies.

Oregon Is First to Benchmark Under New Contract

NASACT has signed the first benchmarking contract with a state under the new contract signed with The Hackett Group in June of 2012. In October, the state of Oregon signed a Statement of Work for all four functional benchmarks – finance, human resources (including payroll), procurement and information technology. States interested in learning more about the benchmarking program should contact Kim O’Ryan at NASACT at koryan@nasact.org or (859) 276-1147 or Kathy Zupo with The Hackett Group at kzupo@thehackettgroup.com or (770) 225-7204.
Wyoming State Treasurer Joe Meyer Dies, 71

Wyoming State Treasurer Joseph B. (Joe) Meyer, 71, passed away on October 6, 2012, in Cheyenne with his family by his side following a long battle with lung cancer. He was in his second term as Wyoming state treasurer, having been re-elected to that position in 2010.

Throughout his life, Mr. Meyer made a significant contribution to his native state and was recently honored for his 40 years of service to the state of Wyoming by Gov. Matt Mead. During those 40 years, Mr. Meyer served as state treasurer, secretary of state, attorney general, government affairs and communications assistant to the president of the University of Wyoming, and assistant director of the Legislative Service Office.

A graduate of the University of Wyoming, Mr. Meyer used his education and talents to better his community and state and was honored as a distinguished alumni of the University of Wyoming in 2012 for his outstanding achievements.

Mr. Meyer received his bachelor’s degree in mathematics/chemistry from the University of Wyoming in 1963 and went on to obtain his juris doctorate degree from the UW Law School in 1967.

Mr. Meyer’s legacy lives on in Wyoming through the many friends and colleagues he worked with over the last 40 years. His knowledge of Wyoming and statesmanship were an asset to all who knew him. His approachable manner, good humor and complex understanding of government had him serving as political counsel and mentor to hundreds throughout his life.

Mr. Meyer is survived by his wife of 46 years, Mary Orr Meyer, his sons, Vince, and Warren (Cory), grandsons Ethan and Devin, all of Cheyenne, and many cousins, nieces and nephews.

The process to name a successor to the position of state treasurer of Wyoming is currently underway.

Donna Jones Retires as Idaho State Controller, Brandon Woolf to Permanently Fill Vacancy

In a letter to Gov. Otter, Ms. Jones noted that her ongoing recovery may take as long as two years, and that she could not “in good conscience deliver anything less than a full measure to those who have trusted me all these years,” and thus chose “to retire and ensure the people are represented by someone who can give them all of his attention and energy.”

At the press conference announcing Ms. Jones’ retirement and Mr. Woolf’s appointment, Gov. Otter commended Ms. Jones for her loyal service to the people of Idaho.

“For nearly 30 years Donna has been a dedicated public servant. It’s a selfless act for her to retire from office, thus ensuring the people of Idaho are represented by a controller who can devote all of his time and energies to the job,” said Gov. Otter. “Just like Donna, I have complete confidence in Brandon Woolf’s ability to be an outstanding state controller.”

Mr. Woolf is a 15-year veteran of the State Controller’s Office. Hired initially as an intern, he has held a variety of leadership posts in the State Controller’s Office including bureau chief, division administrator, and most recently chief of staff. On July 3, 2012, at State Controller Jones’ recommendation, Gov. Otter temporarily appointed Mr. Woolf to serve as acting state controller. With Ms. Jones’ retirement and Gov. Otter’s appointment, Mr. Woolf is now the permanent state controller, and will serve out the remainder of Jones’ term, which ends in January of 2015. Mr. Woolf’s appointment is subject to the approval of the Idaho State Senate.

Mr. Woolf earned a bachelor of arts degree in political science (Cum Laude) from Utah State University, and a master’s of business administration from Boise State University.

The FAF Names Diermeier Chairman and Petach as a Member

Jeffrey J. Diermeier, former president and CEO of the CFA Institute, has been elected chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Financial Accounting Foundation.

Mr. Diermeier, who has served on the FAF Board since 2009, succeeds John J. Brennan, chairman emeritus of The Vanguard Group. Mr. Brennan was elected chairman of the FAF Board of Trustees in February 2009 and will continue to serve for the balance of his five-year term, through December 2013.

The FAF also announced the appointment of Ann Marie Petach, chief financial officer and senior managing director of Blackrock, Inc., to the Board of Trustees. Ms. Petach’s appointment fills a vacancy on the Board with a term that extends to December 2014; at that time, she will be eligible to be reappointed for an additional three years.

“Today’s announcements emphasize the importance of the investor perspective to the FAF and our standard-setting boards,” Mr. Brennan said. “Jeff Diermeier is a highly regarded investor who has successfully overseen the management of hundreds of billions of dollars in assets over many years and is especially well qualified to lead the FAF Board of Trustees.”

He added, “Ann Marie Petach is CFO of one of the largest investment management companies in the world. Earlier in her career, as treasurer of Ford Motor Company, she was responsible for overseeing Ford’s global pension assets. We’re very pleased to welcome both Jeff and Ann Marie to these roles.”

Mr. Diermeier, who will serve a three-year term, headed the CFA Institute until his retirement at the end of 2008. Previously, Mr. Diermeier was global chief investment officer at UBS Global Asset Management, overseeing the management of more than $400 billion in assets. He worked with UBS and its predecessors for almost 30 years in various positions, including head of asset allocation, head of the U.S. equity division, and deputy chief investment officer. He was a founding managing partner of the former Brinson Partners, Inc. Mr. Diermeier holds a B.B.A. and an M.B.A. from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

“We at the FAF thank Jack Brennan for his four years of dedicated service as chairman,” said FAF president and chief executive officer Teresa S. Polley. “Under Jack’s leadership, the trustees significantly expanded their outreach to our stakeholders and implemented major changes as part of their broadened oversight responsibilities—the Private Company Council, the post-implementation review process, and the academic study of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board’s mission, are just three examples.

“We have had the privilege of working closely with Jeff Diermeier during the past four years, and we’re very excited about continuing and expanding that relationship as Jeff assumes his new role as chairman,” she added.

Ms. Polley said that Ms. Petach’s long experience as both a preparer of financial statements and an investor will bring important expertise to the Board of Trustees. Before joining Blackrock as managing director and head of business finance in 2007, Ms. Petach worked at Ford Motor Company for more than 20 years in positions of increasing responsibility. Her final position at Ford was treasurer and corporate vice president.

AICPA Seeks input on ED

In June 2012, the Professional Ethics Executive Committee of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants issued the exposure draft Proposed Revised and New Interpretations and Proposed Deletion of Ethics Rulings. This exposure draft includes a proposal that would make financial statement preparation a nonattest service.

Because the biggest impact of this change will be on compilations, NSAA will not be responding to this exposure draft. The exposure draft can be downloaded at www.aicpa.org/InterestAreas/ProfessionalEthics/Community/ExposureDrafts.

If you wish to respond to the exposure draft, the original comment deadline of August 31 has been extended to November 30.

NSAA IT Workshop and Conference Recap

Left to right: Sherri Rowland, NSAA’s association director, Karen Helderman (VA), chair of the E-Government Committee, and Chloe Haidet (GA), vice chair of the committee.

The IT workshop featured presentations from several speakers on the topic of “Auditing Operating Systems and Database Security.”

Computers for onsite demonstrations during the workshop were made available by the Tennessee Office of the Comptroller of the Treasury.

Steve Geddes (GA) discussed the use of business intelligence during his presentation.

Doug Petersen (NV) focused on data analytic tools, specifically the use of Active Data for Excel.

Several speakers participated in the panel on “Issues in IT Governance.” Shown left to right: Roger Boyd (GA), Teresa Furnish (OR), and Jon Ingram (FL).
Doug Robinson, executive director of NASCIO offered his views on IT priorities, issues and trends within the states in the opening session of the conference.

Pennsylvania’s chief information security officer, Erik Avakian, informed the group about core security services states should consider.

Karen Helderman (VA) used live survey data from conference participants as she moderated the IT roundtable.

Jay Rasband and Sean Clifford, both from the Arizona Office of the Auditor General, discussed auditing web-based applications.

Ahmad Sabbarini from Ernst & Young provided insight on database security to conference attendees.

Chloe Haidet (GA) shows off a door prize that she won from the conference hosts.
